Search Tips

You can use Boolean operators to limit your search either in the Advanced Search tab using the drop down choices or by creating a search string in the Expert Search field.

- AND: all terms in the search appear in the results
- OR: at least one term in the search appears in the results
- NOT: excludes terms from the search
- (): groups words and phrases to show a relationship and the order in which you would like the search to be performed
- W# (with): searches for terms in the order listed in an article with no more than the number searched between them
- N# (near): searches for terms in any order listed in an article with no more than the number searched between them

Phrase searching is useful when searching for an exact phrase. If you are looking for articles about modern, you can put "modern art" in quotation marks to ensure the phrase is searched and not just the combination of the terms in any location in the article.

Wildcards allow you to search for multiple terms at one time. There is a variety offered by WorldCat.

- The plus sign (+) allows you to search for a word and its plural.
- The asterisk (*) represents any number of characters including no characters at all at the end of a word. This is often referred to as truncation. There must be at least three letters preceding the asterisk
*ex. environment matches:
environment
environments environmental
- The pound sign (#) represents any single character.
ex. wom#n matches:
woman
women
- The question mark (?) represents from zero to nine additional characters. You can include a specific number after the question mark to indicate the maximum number of characters to replace.
ex. colo?r matches:
color
colour
colonizer
while colo?lr matches:
colour

Take care when using wildcards as you may not want to use one with all searches.

If nesting is not used, WorldCat will process AND, OR or NOT in left to right order.

It is crucial when preparing to write a research paper that you allow yourself sufficient time to request materials through ILL.
