University of Minnesota, Morris
Temporary Position in Psychology
Developmental Psychology

The University of Minnesota, Morris (UMM) seeks to fill a temporary, one-year position in Developmental Psychology. We are looking for someone to teach an annual course load of six courses in Child/Adolescent (one course will be geared to Education majors), and/or Adulthood Psychology, Lifespan, and other courses to be negotiated. Position begins August 15, 2011. Salary and teaching load competitive. Prefer Ph.D. in Psychology or closely related field, but will consider outstanding ABD.

The University of Minnesota, Morris is a residential public liberal arts college serving over 1800 students. As one of five campuses of the University of Minnesota, UMM has a unique mission and offers the best of both in the world of higher education - a small, close-knit campus complemented by the power and support of a world-renowned research University system. UMM is located 160 miles west of Minneapolis in the rural community of Morris, MN. The student body is talented, diverse and engaged. The Morris student body is one of the most ethnically diverse in the University of Minnesota system with 20% students of color (12% are American Indian students) and a growing international student population. The college values diversity in its students, faculty, and staff. The college is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity of our community through their teaching, research, and/or service because we believe that diversity enriches the classroom and research experience at the University.
